

Welcome to the programme for our second “virtual” meeting. Our first attempt looking at some of the issues faced by us having to work from home due to the ‘lockdown’ measures. The meeting was filled to capacity and there was lots of positive feedback following some really interesting commentary and discussion by our excellent panel. In this second session we want to take the time to cover the important and challenging topic of racism and the Black Lives Matter issues that have been dominating our news feeds. This will be an opportunity to hear personal and professional perspectives from our panellists, to actively engage in the conversation and to consider what this might mean to us as individuals and our respective organisations. This will be a safe and intimate forum to explore the issues and ask questions. We are delighted to have Chika Aghadiuno from TWIN’s Advisory Board moderate the session. She will be joined by Maxine Goddard, from Zurich and by Pauline Miller, from Lloyd’s of London.

We do hope you can join us for what promises to be a really impactful 90 minutes. Please register your interest via email to patricia@the-net-work-meetings.com The link to the meeting will be sent to those registered nearer the date.

“Black Lives Matter”
Why should we and how do we support the current call for change?

Chika Aghadiuno
 Group Enterprise & Operational Risk Director
Aviva

Chika leads a small team of risk experts tasked with looking across the Group’s global operations and providing insight to key decision makers on the macro and emerging risks faced by Aviva, advising on how best to take advantage of the opportunities and mitigate the threat.

Chika is a non-executive director for a leading UK medical defence organisation. She is the co-sponsor of the Aviva Origins Community which focuses on inclusion matters related to race and ethnicity in the workplace, and chair of the Diversity Advisory Group for the UK actuarial profession, the Institute and Faculty of Actuaries.

Chika is also a member of TWIN’s Advisory Board and will be moderating this panel session
